

Brad Bayliff represents and advises clients on federal and state regulatory issues including administrative agency, legislative, and litigation matters. Besides regulatory, contested cases, and arbitration work before state utility commissions, Brad represents clients in rulemakings and lobbying efforts. His administrative law practice areas include: Transmission Line Routing; Telecommunications Law; Cable Law; and Electric Utility Law. His experience in telecommunications law includes representing clients in Texas and throughout the country.

Brad received his B.S. and J.D. degrees from Indiana University. During law school, he was an intern for Chief Justice Thomas Phillips of the Supreme Court of Texas and served on the Editorial Staff of the Federal Communications Law Journal, the journal of record for the Federal Communications Bar Association (FCBA). He has served as a Co-Chair of the Texas Chapter of the FCBA since 2007.

He is Board Certified in Administrative Law by the Texas Board of Legal Specialization, designated as an Advocate by the National Institute for Trial Advocacy, holds an AV Martindale-Hubbell® Peer Review Rating™, and is a member of the State Bar College of Texas. Prior to his legal career, Brad was a real estate broker and developer and served as a member of the Indiana House of Representatives from 1986 to 1994.