Leonard H. Dougal is a Partner with Jackson Walker L.L.P., and a member of the firm's Environmental and Legislative Practice Group. He earned his J.D., with honors, from The University of Texas. Prior to attending law school, Mr. Dougal worked for Exxon as a petroleum engineer.

In his law practice, he represents a diverse group of clients in water supply matters, including energy companies involved in shale development, power generation companies, real estate developers, and special utility districts. He also has an active practice involving water quality issues, where he represents mining and energy companies, developers, and agricultural operators in permit and compliance matters.

- He is a co-author of two chapters in the Texas water law treatise, the Essentials of Texas Water Resources (TexasBarBooks):

Mr. Dougal is a regular speaker at bar and continuing legal education seminars on emerging water law issues, and has recently spoken on:

- "Conflicts, Curtailments and Conversions: Lessons from the Historic Texas Drought," (presented to the 25th Annual Texas Environmental SuperConference)
- Upstream Development Water Needs: Supply and Permitting Considerations (presented to the South Texas College of Law Energy Law Institute)
- Shale Play Hydraulic Fracturing: Water Quality and Supply Issues (presented to Texas Rural Water Association Technical Conference)
- Texas Water Law: Exemptions From Surface Water Rights Permitting (presented to the CLE International Water Law Conference, 20th Annual Conference)
- Drought Management, Water Conservation and Enforcement of Water Rights – Water Purchaser Perspective (presented to the State Bar of Texas, 11th Annual Changing Face of Water rights Course)
