Emily Jolly is a Member at Enoch Keever specializing in administrative appellate and regulatory law, counseling clients on a broad range of matters including litigation, compliance, enforcement, and judicial review of administrative agency decisions. Emily's energy practice focuses on matters involving the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUCT), the Electric Reliability Council of Texas (ERCOT), the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), and the North American Electric Reliability Corporation (NERC). She serves electric utilities, power generators, retail electric providers, and industrial energy consumers, representing and advising clients in complex regulatory matters, contested cases, and suits for judicial review.

Emily is a frequent CLE contributor and has presented at the UT Law Advanced Texas Administrative Law Seminar, UT Law Annual Conference on State and Federal Appeals, and Austin Bar Association Bench Bar Conference. She is also active in the Gulf Coast Power Association, the State Bar of Texas and Austin Bar Association Civil Appellate and Public Utility Law Sections, and the Travis County Women Lawyers Foundation. Emily has been recognized as a Rising Star® by Texas Lawyer since 2016. She received a J.D., with honors, from the University of Texas School of Law in 2007, and a B.A., magna cum laude, from Rice University in 2004.
